

Year 1 English

Week 5

29.06.2020

Boxing Up

To help us write a story and to help us understand the different aspects needed in a story we do something called “Boxing Up”.

This is where we box up each part of the story.
Using the grid on the next slide box up the story of Little Red Riding Hood.

	Little Red Riding Hood
Characters
Setting
Beginning
Middle
End

Innovation

At school we innovate our text maps. Ask your child – what does innovate mean?

Innovate means change. We adapt a part of the story.

You are going to innovate your characters from the story. You can change 1 character or as many as you would like.

ACTIVITY:

Discuss with your child – what new characters would they like?

Use paper or post it notes to draw your new characters on and place the paper over the old characters (like the example shown).

EXTENSION: Create a new characters mind map to show your new characters.

Innovated Stories

Retell your innovated story to your family.

Can you think of some new actions to go with your new characters?

Get your family member to record you retelling the story and email it to the key stage one email address.

Practise your new text map several times.

Boxing Up

To help us write a story and to help us understand the different aspects needed in a story we do something called “Boxing Up”.

This is where we box up each part of the story.

Using the grid on the next slide box up your innovated story.

	Little Red Riding Hood	New Text -
Characters
Setting
Beginning
Middle
End

Innovated Text Map Writing

You have now innovated your text map and you have practised it regularly.

ACTIVITY:

Can you now write sentences to match your new text map?

Do not forget to segment and blend your words.

Write the sentence using capital letters, finger spaces and punctuation.